FIRST WE BOMBED NEW MEXICO is the untold story of Trinity – the world’s first nuclear bomb detonated in New Mexico one month before the bombing of Hiroshima.

Nearly 80 years later, this award-winning documentary by filmmaker Lois Lipman provides a long-overdue reveal of the plight of southern New Mexicans – predominantly Hispanic and Native Americans – whose families were exposed to catastrophic levels of radioactive fallout from the Trinity Test and uranium mining in our state. The film follows Latina businesswoman and cancer survivor, Tina Cordova, through her journey and grassroots movement for justice for the many “Downwinders” whose lives were forever impacted.

On May 22, 2025, two screenings of this impactful film will be provided at the South Broadway Cultural Center in Albuquerque. The event is designed to help fund screenings elsewhere in our state and beyond, until we find a national streamer/distributor.

There are opportunities to Sponsor this event at several levels. Sponsors will be invited to a pre-screening reception, with Wine and Lite Bites and joined by Lois Lipman and Tina Cordova.
